

Dear Mr. Griffith,

9/6/96

Ordinarily we do not do what you ask but because you are in the service we make an exception. Please just add the postage to $10.00.

I do not now recall whether I thought of sending Post Mortem to Carrico or not after all these years. I do know that when it was possible for me to return to Dallas he was no longer there.

However, as you will see in Post Mortem, what he told me is what he had already testified to. The ~~add~~ difference is the demonstration he gave me of how the tie is cut off. He told me he unbuttoned two buttons to get the stethoscope in. While ^{as} I recall they were doing that cutting. He also said that what they did was the usual, the normal procedure. You will find that is exactly what the nurses testified, Henscheliffe, Bowron or both.

Carrico was aware that I was interviewing him to use in my writing.

Your question about ^{the} ~~ent~~ location of the throat wound you will find is in his testimony, where it was entirely ignored. Nothing new in it.

I'm sure I quote his testimony on this. Dulles asked him twice.

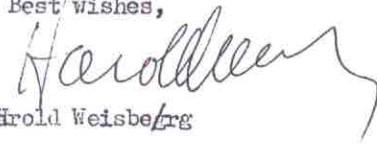

Not Specter!

Perry also knew I'd be writing what he told me.

I interviewed them both the same morning.

Please excuse the haste. We are having the storm you will have heard about.

Best wishes,

Harold Weisberg
